THE OFFICIAL INDEX

TO

The Times

Supplies the reader with a unique mechanism for tracing any fact recorded in the columns of the papers. The monthly parts, issued within a few days of the end of the month indexed, enable him to keep in touch with events while they are still fresh, while the annual amalgamated volume provides him with a very convenient clue to the history of the entire year as mirrored in The Times.

The following are the chief features of the method that has been adopted :—

1. The indexing is analytical. This has the effect of affording an intelligible bird's-eye view of the details of each subject as recorded.

2. The entries and cross references are so numerous that haphazard hunting in the Index itself is avoided.

3. Proceedings in Parliament are very fully indexed under the heading PARLIAMENT, in addition to the indexing of each topic under its own title.

4. Speeches are indexed under the various subjects with which they deal as well as under the speakers' names.

5. Not only large political subjects, but any piece of information which appears in The Times—an official dinner, a local event, a personal detail, or whatever else it may be—will be found indexed with equal thoroughness.

The annual subscription to the complete Index—that is, to the twelve monthly parts with the amalgamated volume for the preceding year—is £2 10s., post free. The annual subscription to the monthly parts alone is £2, post free.

Communications respecting the Index should be addressed to The Intelligence Department, The Times, Printing-house-square, London, E.C.
